

26/2017

11.04.2017/ Kiel.

A similar scenario could also occur now due to present global warming. The observational data have already shown, in some areas of the North Atlantic, that a decrease in the salt content took place because of the meltwater input. However, the observations d